Garnov, A.a, Agibalova, E.b
Privatization as one of the instruments for modernizing Russian economy: The main tasks and solutions

AFFILIATIONS: Department of Industrial Enterprises Management, Plekhanov Russian University of Economics, Stremyanniy pereulok 36, 117997 Moscow, Russian Federation;
Department of Languages and Cross-Cultural Studies, Plekhanov Russian University of Economics, Stremyanniy pereulok 36, 117997 Moscow, Russian Federation

ABSTRACT: The new phase of privatization in Russia envisages the transfer of certain enterprises into private ownership with the aim of modernizing the economy and making it more innovative. A number of measures have been elaborated by the government to facilitate this process and ensure a most effective outcome. Still, there exist some problems, which have to be tackled and hence the need for expert opinion and evaluation. © IDOSI Publications, 2012.

AUTHOR KEYWORDS: Competition; Credit multiplier; De-privatization; Forecast; Innovative economy; Investment attractiveness; Investor; Joint-stock company; Modernization; Private owner; Privatization; State sector

Rossiyskaya Gazeta, Dmitry Medvedev will go to Davos for investors (2011)
Sell more, February 4. Kommersant, 10(4551);
Oleg Kuznetcov (2011) Airport asset considered separated from the state, ,
Kommersant (Ekaterinburg), transit. Kommersant (Rostov), 193(4731). 222(4520);
Kuznetcov, O., (2010) Kavminvodavia join the Boeing. Kommersant (Rostov),
212, p. 4510;
Kluchkin, A., (2010) Russia under the hammer. Lenta., , http://lenta.ru/articles/2010/10/21/privat/, November 21, ru;
November 29;
Kukol, E., (2011) Sell more. Rossiyskaya Gazeta, Federal Release, 5399 (23).,
February 4;
Plusina, M., Lesovskih, I., (2010) The media is separated from the state.
Kommersant (Ekaterinburg), 222 (4520)
CORRESPONDENCE ADDRESS: Garnov, A.; Department of Industrial Enterprises Management, Plekhanov Russian University of Economics,
Stremyanniy pereulok 36, 117997 Moscow, Russian Federation
ISSN: 18184952
DOI: 10.5829/idosi.wasj.2012.18.12005
LANGUAGE OF ORIGINAL DOCUMENT: English
DOCUMENT TYPE: Article
SOURCE: Scopus